INTRODUCTION TO MIRACLES

Thank you for downloading these lessons, which were selected from the acclaimed "Heroes of Faith" course.

Lessons presented in this file have been used by teachers and students all over the world for almost 50 years. They are designed for individual or group study and as a teaching guide for helping others. Thousands of students have studied and been blessed by them. You're encouraged to present them in your own Bible study group. They were written by Dr. Raymond O. Corvin, whose credentials and background you will find on the hyperlink.

In this file, you will find four lessons containing an introduction, a reading assignment, and questions for testing your comprehension and understanding of the material covered.

On each lesson are hyperlinks to an online version of the reading assignment; but, you must be connected to the Internet to read it. You may read the Bible assignment from your own Bible if you like.

DIRECTIONS FOR USING THE COURSE

Each lesson contains four parts:

- An introduction to the topic.
- A reading assignment.
- Questions for you to answer. You should print them so you can fill in the blanks.
- An Answer Sheet. Please fill in your entire lesson before grading it. Count two points off a score of 100 to determine your grade.

If you are studying within a group setting, the answers sheets can be withheld from the students and graded during class. The questions have been purposely designed to promote lively discussion about each student's interpretation of the question and his answer. Be sure to note the chapter and verse where you find your answers.

Studying the lessons with a group is very rewarding, and you will retain much more from sharing thoughts and ideas. So others may benefit from the lessons, we hope you will share, post or publish our web site address:

Bible-ebooks.com

Our sincere desire is that the lessons will bless you personally, and that as you apply, share, and teach what you learn, you will be an even greater blessing to others.

MIRACLES IN EGYPT

A miracle is an event of divine and sometimes of satanic origin that is contrary to or divergent from an existing law in nature.

The miracles in Egypt verify the definition which holds that the miracle may have as its source of power God or Satan. Moses as God's representative and the Egyptian sorcerers as Satan's representatives engaged in the same type of miracle working, up to a certain point. Both threw down their rods and they turned into serpents. Both turned water into blood. Both caused frogs to come upon the land. Both tried to bring forth lice; the Egyptian magicians tried and failed, but Moses and Aaron succeeded.

In Egypt God used miracles to impose judgment upon the nation. Throughout the Old Testament miracles were used almost equally as acts of judgment and as acts of mercy and, on some occasions, they were used as acts of judgment to the enemies of God and as acts of mercy to the people of God.

Explaining what is meant in the definition of an "event contrary to or divergent from a law in nature," the example of Simon Peter is selected. According to one of the first laws of physics, one concludes that when an object is placed into a liquid, it will sink into the liquid by the pull of gravity until it displaces its weight in the liquid.

Simon Peter (the object) stepped out of the boat into the water (the liquid). According to the law of gravity, he would have immediately sunk into the water to the point of displacing his weight. His walking on the water was contrary to the laws of nature. It was a miracle.

MIRACLES OF JUDGMENT

God performs miracles of judgment.

Miriam and Aaron, the sister and brother of Moses, murmured against him. Actually their gripe was against the wife whom he had married. She was an Ethiopian woman. But the depth of their complaint against him went beyond his marriage. They were jealous of the fact that God was speaking through Moses in a way that he was not speaking through them.

The Lord heard their complaint against Moses whom Israel considered to be the meekest man on the face of the earth. Suddenly the Lord spoke to all three of them demanding that they appear before the tabernacle of the congregation. They all appeared.

The Lord came down in the pillar of the cloud and from the door of the tabernacle he called to Aaron and Miriam.

“Hear now my words,” he said, “If there be a prophet among you, I will make myself known unto him in a vision, and will speak unto him in a dream ... but unto Moses I will speak mouth to mouth” (Numbers 12:1-8).

The anger of the Lord was kindled against Aaron and Miriam and he departed. As the Lord departed Miriam was left with the dreaded disease of leprosy. God placed this judgment upon her.

Had it not been for the prayer of Moses and the mercy of God, Miriam would have gone to the grave under the judgment of God.

MIRACLES OF JESUS

The miracles that Jesus performed are recorded by all four gospel writers. The total number that are recorded is 35. Only one is recorded by all four, the feeding of the five thousand. Matthew records 21 miracles, Mark 21, Luke 20, and John 8. Of John's 8 miracles, six of them are recorded only by him: Water made wine, healing of the nobleman's son, the impotent man, the man born blind, the raising of Lazarus, and the draught of fishes after His resurrection.

The miracles are distributed throughout His ministry. During the beginning of His ministry, He performed 1, during the first Galilean period 8, during the second Galilean period 10, during the third Galilean period 7, during passion week 2 and during the post-resurrection period 1.

Though there is overlapping and the same miracle may be listed under more than one group, the following listing is fairly accurate; thus He performed 9 miracles over nature; 17 miracles over the sick, deformed or injured; 3 over death; and 7 over devils.

The miracles He performed give insights into His nature, His power, His compassion, His authority and His love. For example, His divine and human natures were demonstrated in his quieting the storm-tossed sea. His power was shown in all of them, but particularly in His raising the dead. His compassion was observed in His feeding the 5,000. His authority was seen when He cast out devils, and His love was manifested in His healing the sick.

His miracles were by nature a part of His ministry. Only one miracle was an act of judgment, and that was upon a barren fig tree. The others were miracles of mercy.

MIRACLES IN ACTS

Miracles continued to happen after the resurrection and ascension of Jesus. They happened throughout the early history of the church as recorded by Luke in the book of Acts. In the last chapter just before Paul reached Rome, the father of Publius (Acts 28:8) was healed. If miracles occurred throughout Old Testament times, during the life of Jesus and during the history of the early church, what is to prohibit our believing that God still performs the miraculous today.

Though it is sometimes difficult to determine what is and what is not a miracle, it would be near factual to conclude that there are reported some twenty miracles in the book of Acts.

Demonstrated in the book of Acts are more strokes of judgment. Ananias was smitten dead for his lying. Shortly thereafter his wife met the same fate for the same cause. Saul of Tarsus was knocked down and blinded because of his persecuting Jesus of Nazareth and his followers. Bar-Jesus who withstood Paul and the gospel on the Island of Cyprus was smitten with blindness.

As Christianity spread over the Roman Empire, the movement had at first no recorded New Testament literature. The power of the Holy Spirit and the working of miracles constituted major methods used in pioneering and developing Christian churches.

The Spirit-filled apostolic leaders were ready at a moment's notice to preach Christ and his resurrection. Their ministry was accompanied by signs, wonders and miracles.
